Why does the skin on my face and neck lose elasticity and start to sag?

Even with minimal sun exposure, our skin gradually loses its firm, youthful look. Aging and cumulative exposure to the sun affects the quantity, strength and elasticity of the collagen fibers in our skin. This, in turn, causes the wrinkles and sagging skin.

Can sagging skin be corrected non-surgically?

Skin laxity can be improved by employing novel non-invasive energy-based technologies. Worldwide, clinical experience has shown that when using the EndyMed 3DEEP RF technology, it is possible to promote the production of new, healthier collagen leading to a skin tightening effect with considerable reduction in the appearance of wrinkles.

What is RF and how does it work?

RF (radiofrequency) is an advanced technology that safely heats the collagen in the skin (dermis and subcutaneous tissues). If sufficient energy is delivered, the collagen will contract, providing an immediate change in skin appearance. The treatment also triggers a second process of new collagen production, leading to a significant change in skin appearance. A result of collagen remodeling is tighter, younger looking skin.

Which body areas can be treated with 3DEEP face and neck skin tightening and contouring?

3DEEP face and neck skin tightening and contouring treatment is designed for anti-wrinkle and skin tightening of face and neck, including hard to treat areas such as cheeks, jaw line, and under chin areas.

What is the unique advantage of EndyMed's 3DEEP RF technology?

3DEEP RF, based on a unique radiofrequency technology, represents the latest generation in the evolution of skin tightening and contouring systems. 3DEEP RF technology is comprised of multiple energy sources working simultaneously and offers, for the first time, a totally safe, energy-based system that combines delivery of controlled heat deep into the skin while preserving the overlying epidermis. Treatment parameters are personalized according to body area and skin characteristics, assuring minimal discomfort, minimal downtime and maximal safety for your type of skin.

What should I expect during the treatment?

During the procedure, deep skin layers are gradually heated, while the skin surface remains around 40° C (hot shower temperature). Your skin temperature will be constantly monitored. Depending on the size of the treated area, treatment may take between 30-45 minutes. The treatment is relaxing, pain free and has no side effects.

What is the recovery time?

Following treatment, you can immediately resume your routine activities. You may notice slight redness around the treatment area, which usually disappears in a couple of hours.

How many treatments are required to see results?

According to your treatment program, your doctor will offer a series of treatments, usually six, in one or two-week intervals. You should start seeing improvement in your skin following the second treatment, but more improvement will gradually appear as the treatment course progresses.

As new, healthier collagen is formed, more natural looking and firmer skin will be produced. The gradual improvement in your skin will continue even after completion of the treatment series.
